1.	Rapunzel	Gebrüder Grimm
	There once was a woman and a man that lived next to a witch. They were very happy. The lady saw rapunzel in the witch's garden and she really wanted to eat it. When she ate it, she liked it.
2.	The Princess and the Pea	Hans Christian Andersen
	In a far away land, there lived a prince who wanted a real princess to be his wife. He traveled around the world to find her. He returned alone and unhappy to his kingdom. One stormy night, a princess arrived at the door. The lightening was flashing. Torrents of rain were rushing down. The princess's clothes were soaked. Water was running into the heels of her shoes and out the toes. It was a dreadful storm.
3.	Hansel and Gretel	Gebrüder Grimm
	Once upon a time in a vast forest lived a poor family. Since there was a famine, they had zero food. There was a woodcutter who had a mean wife and a boy named Hansel and a girl named Gretel. The mean wife decided to get rid of Hansel and Gretel so she could have more food. The children overheard her plan to leave them in the forest. Hansel gathered pebbles from his yard.
